

Jokes

O WING to the limited space this year we are unable to print the usual number of jokes and grinds which have been so characteristic of our previous annuals. We have decided, however, to recall to your mind one joke, and only one, which it is hoped on account of the celebrities connected with it, will become one of Denison's few traditions:

K. O. BURRER (in Physics)—What is force?

HARRY YALE—It is a kind of breakfast food.—Eli Benjamin Yale.

Courtesy of 1905 ADYTUM, W. C Humpton, Proprietor.

