

SENIORS FACE NEW HORIZONS OF COLLEGE AND CAREER

Though many horizons have been passed, many more are still ahead. We of the 1954 Senior Class are discovering that some of our most important decisions must be made. After graduation our paths will part and each will reach for his or her own horizon; some will turn to the business world; some will choose higher schools of learning; while still others will marry, establishing the homes of tomorrow.

The long hard road to the sparkling climax of our final year at the famed Clifton Palace was detoured by many trials and tribulations. While freshmen, we dreaded the four years of work in view; but as our final year approaches, arrives, and disappears, we all have a certain sadness deep within.

Throughout the year there were many highlights. The Class of '54 is the first to hold a Christmas Party. This was a gala event with alumni from many years attending.

By far the most cherished moments were those spent at the Senior Prom, May 14, 1954, at Castle Farms. Sealed in our memories forever are the visions of rustling, billowing formals, glittering sequins, and crisp white tuxedos.

Students congregate before the daily grind.
