

Harvery Orey, Tom Meyung, and Jack Asher show bowling form

The keglers of New Woodward High felt the blow of Big Red success in the final game of the 1953-1954 bowling season in early March when Hughes men defeated them in three out of three contests, bringing the season record for the Bulldog pups to six lost out of six, at the hands of Hughes. Under the able leadership of Tom Meyung and Gene Stuber, the varsity squad led the way to third place in the PHSL league in a fairly successful season.

Coach Richard Thornbury's men included the returning lettermen trio of Meyung, Stuber, and Ron Beecher. Other scores of the season's play, which consisted of a series of six games with each of the public high schools included three won, three lost splits with both Walnut Hills and Central Vocational High Schools. Against Withrow, the team which later went on to capture the city crown and become champions for the fourth
