

The Library

To find a wealth of knowledge we have only to look to our own Hughes Library. Here, with the assistance of Misses Boland and Lynd, we may delve into vast stores of learning from the past and present. And we may settle down to read about the ideas and the people and the events that have brought us to this moment in our lives. Here in the library we investigate further the areas pertaining to our studies, we pursue information on our hobbies, and discover that greatest of all recreations, reading for pleasure. Attracted by the colorful displays, and aided by the extensive catalogues of books and visual materials, we discover the library to be a warm and friendly place, always prepared to help us expand the horizons of our lives.

The Hughes librarians, Misses Mary Boland and Polly Lynd, prepare for their daily routine.

Students browse during lunch period.
