

MARY CASKEY
DIANE SCOTT

BILLIE GOYERT
FLORENCE VOLKMER

Home Economics

The Home Economics courses include everything of importance to the future homemaker and career girl. Any girl from the seventh grade to the twelfth grade may study Home Economics. A special course in Homemaking, which is offered to senior girls who have had no previous training, teaches the basic fundamentals of becoming a good housewife. These senior girls learn to prepare well-balanced meals and proper table settings, select food and clothing, and care for a child. In completely equipped classrooms, with modern appliances and utensils, all girls in Home Economics learn to cook and sew, receive instruction in family relationships and consumer education, and prepare themselves for one of the most important jobs in the world, the making of a happy home.

