

Mrs. Raible arranges the desserts before the Hughestown crowd hits the lunchroom.

In Memoriam

Hughestown was deeply grieved at the passing of Mrs. Alice Raible in January of this year. In her capable hands lay the task of providing food for three thousand students and teachers. A Hughes graduate, Mrs. Raible attended Columbia, Wisconsin, and Cincinnati Universities. In the twelve years she served at Hughestown as dietician, she built up a great reputation for the efficient operation of the cafeteria. Always calm and a skillful administrator, Mrs. Raible won the confidence, respect, and love of all who knew her. Hughestown extends deepest sympathy to her husband and son in their tragic loss of this fine woman.

Hughes Must Eat Well

The lunch room staff of Hughes consists of many hard-working women and students. The students are cashiers and lunch-line guards. The women do the cooking and keep the counters well supplied with a large variety of delicious foods. After each student empties his tray, staff members wash and prepare it for the next day's use.

All luncheons and banquets that are held by school organizations during the year are prepared by the staff of the cafeteria.

Nurse's Headquarters

Miss Sally Huston, the school nurse, is at Hughes for some part of each day. Located near Room 110, she works with the counselors to check children who become sick at school, or for some reason cannot afford medical attention. She also is responsible for physical check-ups given to all seventh and tenth graders who have no doctor of their own.

Miss Huston is from Savannah, Georgia, where she was graduated from Warren R. Chandler School of Nursing.

Miss Huston gives Herbert Myrick a physical check-up.

