

Edwin Sutton Leads Hughes

Mr. Edwin P. Sutton, Jr., principal of Hughes, leads the normal, busy life of a school administrator. He finds that even outside the school building, he follows the lives of students and former students of Hughes in their academic work, in business, and in sports.

He has a wife and two children and sometimes finds time to pursue the hobbies of bowling, golf, swimming, and tennis.

Mr. Sutton's chief interest, though, is people. He has worked mainly in school systems, but he was also a recreation supervisor, an instructor in an Air Force mechanics school, and the head of the audio-visual field for the Cincinnati Board of Education. He has been happiest in the positions affording close association with boys and girls in individual schools.

After working in five junior and three senior high schools, Mr. Sutton feels that people are far more interesting than machines.

Mr. Hobson, New at Hughes

Memories of 1963 will be numerous for Mr. Richard Hobson, now in his first year as assistant principal of Hughes. Coming from Western Hills High School, where he was also assistant principal, Mr. Hobson now busies himself with the innumerable duties of his office.

Assisting Mr. Sutton in the supervision of the senior high is Mr. Hobson's hardest job. His other duties include attendance, discipline, assemblies and textbooks. At night he returns to Hughes to serve as principal of West Night High School.

After carrying out his many duties at Hughes, Mr. Hobson returns home to his wife and two children. He enjoys reading, music, and carpentry when he can find a few hours to spare from his busy schedule.

Having received degrees from Marshall University and the University of Cincinnati, he is well qualified to cope with the many responsibilities of his position. The Annual wishes Mr. Hobson success as the newest member of the Hughes administrative staff.
