

A time-consuming job performed by Miss Schawe, Miss Ratliff, and Mr. Bowers is the transferring of senior grades from trays to report cards.

Ambitious Seniors Strive

Under the leadership of president Dan Bartholomew, the senior class enjoyed a memorable year. The first senior activity of the year was the Harvest Hop, which not only proved profitable but united the class. In November, seniors were seen frolicking in the halls in their childish outfits on traditional Pigtail-Bowtie Day. At the Senior Class Christmas Party, the spirit of Christmas was embodied in all the activities. As the school year drew to a close, it was climaxed with the Junior-Senior Prom and the selection of the senior project.

With the approach of graduation, the seniors realized that their high school days could never be recaptured except in memories. But memories will be aplenty—some bright, some dim—of the numerous activities which crowded 1963.

The seniors owe a debt of gratitude to their senior class sponsors, Miss Aria Parke Schawe, Miss Shirley Ratliff, and Mr. Paul Bowers. Faithful to the class and hard-working, they advised the many committees and activities of the senior class. They will remain forever in the memories of the class of '63.

Senior class officers, John Bollinger, treasurer, Charlotte Johnson, secretary, Judy Oettinger, vice-president, and Danny Bartholomew, president, led the class through a year filled with activities.
