

Mr. Byles teams with Pep Club executive board members to sell shakers for an upcoming out-of-town game after a loud and invigorating pep assembly.

Bottom Row: P. McCabe, Mr. Byles, L. Howard, C. Weber, K. Halvorson, S. Smith. Second Row: M. Ratliff, C. Johnson, L. Hammons, J. Beckman, J. Muhlberg, M. Hoff, S. Young. Third Row: D. Toon, D. Bosse.

Pep Club Encourages Team Spirit At Games

"Don't miss the bus!" was an expression heard often during the football season, thanks to the Pep Club. The buses went to out-of-town football games so the team would be supported there. Among other things for which the Pep Club is responsible are Pep assemblies, the selling of pennants and shakers, and a dance in February.

To promote school spirit and inspire the teams is the purpose of Pep Club. The buses to Middletown and Hamilton games loaded at Hughes about 6:30 and returned to Hughes after the games. Pep assemblies were planned. One of these was "Ben Crazy," an imitation of Dr. Ben Casey, in which a football player was operated on. He was stuffed with blocking, timing, and passing ability.

The players in the skit were shadows, the tools outrageous. Among the instruments used were a hack-saw, a large knife, a chisel, a funnel, and a hammer. Inside the player a clock was found which proved to be twenty minutes slow and threw his timing off.

"Cupid's Fling," the Pep Club dance held in February, was a new type of experiment for Pep Club. The club members were admitted for a quarter while the practically prohibitive price of five dollars admitted those who were not members. There was a large crowd.

Elections for the next Executive Board were held in the spring at an assembly for the entire senior high. Because school spirit is a very important factor in school life, Pep Club deserves praise for its promotion of pep and interest in the team.

