

"Yes, Laureece, I'll let you take Shakespeare to Miss Reynolds' classroom if you'll be careful," Miss Pennington agrees cheerfully.

An exhaustive study of "Romeo and Juliet" is made in one of Mrs. Hamlin's senior classes. Isn't this a romantic balcony scene?

Hughes Joins Rest of World in Celebrating 400th Anniversary of Shakespeare's Birth

Many tenth grade classes study Julius Caesar. Members of Mrs. Stern's class read the assassination scene dramatically. "Et tu, Brute?"

Student-made model of Globe Theater creates interest in study of Shakespeare's plays.

