

Mr. Jones, Efficient

Mr. Jones, the administrative assistant principal, has a variety of responsibilities, some of which are curriculum planning, teacher appraisal, supplies, lockers and textbooks. Mr. Jones says he enjoys his new position this year because he gets an over-all view of the student body.

When Mr. Jones can find time to spare from his daily duties, he enjoys reading and fishing. He is also a member of the Cincinnati Schoolmasters Bowling League.

Mr. Hobson, Energetic

Mr. Hobson, senior high assistant principal, is one of the busiest persons around Hughes. He laughingly admits that his job consists of "a little bit of everything!" Primarily, he deals with the senior high school—enrollment, attendance, activities, and the senior class. He is usually the first person that newly-enrolled pupils meet, and he gives a final approval on fulfilling obligations before seniors receive diplomas.

Mr. Hobson has been associated with Hughes for many years.

Mr. Stillwell, Experienced

A new addition to the competent leadership of the Hughes administration is Mr. Stillwell, assistant principal of the junior high. Before coming to Hughes, he was assistant principal at Cutter Junior High School. In his first year here, he has gained the respect of students and teachers alike.

Mr. Stillwell's hobby is traveling. Last summer, he traveled to Quebec, Canada, the New York World's Fair, and parts of New England. His main enjoyment is working with junior high students.
