

What a mess! Mr. Hall calmly looks on while M. Duhart, D. Thomas and S. Lawrence help (?) R. Daniels change the ribbon.

Mrs. Yvonne Brown, bookkeeping; Mr. Joseph Davis, typing, junior high football; Mr. Charles Geraci, shorthand, Future Business Leaders of America; Mr. William Hall, typing; Miss Sarah Levine, office practice, Production Staff; Mr. Theodore Siddall, merchandising, D.E.C.A.; Mr. Samuel Skurow, Salesmanship, Mr. Kenneth Wenzel, typing.

Large Number of Students Choose Business Field

The outstanding qualities needed in business students are patience and perseverance; the results gained are speed and accuracy. To achieve the knowledge, skill, and characteristics necessary for a business career, the business teachers train their students through courses offered here—shorthand, typing, office practice, bookkeeping, and salesmanship. New courses this year are record-keeping and clerical services. Merchandising provides work experience. Office machines used in class include rotary and key-driven calculating machines and electric typewriters.

"How long is that column of figures, anyway, Mr. Wenzel?" complain D. Wilson and P. Lindsay at the adding machine.