

Mrs. Colson supervises the work of L. McKinney and L. Harris, who are cutting out stylish new jumpers.

Family-centered Program Stressed in Home Economics

The home-making courses are designed to help students live useful and satisfying lives in their homes and communities, now and in the future. Home economics education tries to guide the student in a family-centered program, which emphasizes the responsibility of maintaining a good home and family life. Some of the skills involved are planning, preparing and serving wholesome meals, making and caring for clothing, planning suitable and attractive home furnishings, and managing family finances.

Mrs. Mary Caskey; Mrs. Jane Colson; Mrs. Virginia Miller; Mrs. Ann Rubenstein.

