

Formerly head basketball coach, busy Mr. Grimes now directs the Hughes intramural program.

Betty Moss and Rose Bolling come to Mr. Jones' golf clinic, one intramural activity open to girls.

J. Stallings, C. Taylor, E. Sumler, T. Swoope, J. Standifer, T. Suggs, W. Taylor, W. Stewart of homeroom 222 lead sophomores.

Intramural Council. On Floor: F. Mathes, R. Hammond. In Back: R. Kidwell, E. Ottele, R. Reid, L. Willoughby, N. Johnson.

Hear that music coming from the gym? Roller-skating attracts many participants, both boys and girls.

Intramurals Benefit All

Mr. Grimes, director of intramurals since the program started, keeps things running smoothly in the state's largest intra-school sports activity. An Intramural Council, made up of interested students, assists Mr. Grimes with the record-keeping and many other details.

All grades participate in intramurals and determine a champion for each grade. Grade champions then play each other for the school championship. Individual students earn points for participation and performance. Awards are made at the athletic assembly held late in the year.

Some of the most popular sports are basketball, volleyball, touch football, water-polo, and softball. Girls also enjoy roller-skating, golf, and bowling. Some events take place in the morning before school; others begin at 3:05 p.m. Junior high students, as well as senior high, benefit from the intramural program.