

Notes from Co-editors:

I sincerely hope that the student body realizes that the yearbook is a treasure keeper, a valuable piece of your history. So when the desire to lead the school hits you, go to room 424 and see Ms. Bard and sign up for the yearbook.

Being on the yearbook requires and demands hard, dedicated, attentive, sensitive and inquiring individuals, individuals who are willing to sacrifice their sleep and time to produce a yearbook. This individual is essential in the making of High School Memories.

I would like to thank my best friend Tiffany Johnson for sharing the past two working years with me. There couldn't have been a better twosome. Thanks, especially to Ms. Patricia Bard who made it possible for Tiffany and me to work on the yearbook. Also my friends, the Editorial Board, for sticking with Tiffany and me through the rough and sweet times, Steve for sticking in art pictures, Roz for cleaning, Rosellen for her statements, and Curtis for singing. And last, but not unappreciated, the Yearbook Staff. I thank all the workers for all their help and dedication. The book would have been incomplete without you.

Best wishes,

*Anna
Hutchinson*

I would like to thank the Editorial Staff for working on the Yearbook for the past two years. Without your help, I don't know what I would have done. The editorial board spent a lot of time listening to me and Anna argue about where to put this and where to put that, but through it all we still came through with a good yearbook. I would also like to thank Co-editor Anna Hutchinson, my best friend for working with me. Anna, even though we argued about which ideas to use, we still remained best friends. Someone once told Anna and me that best friends couldn't work together. Well, we proved them wrong. To Ms. Bard, Anna and I appreciate your help in planning the yearbook. Good luck next year.

I would like to say that the yearbook has been a challenge and experience for me and if I had the chance, I would do it all over again.

Best wishes,

Tiffany N. Johnson
