WE BREAK IT!

WITHROW TOWER

When Charles Midlam, secretary of the Bricklayer and Hod Carriers Union was approached by the Board of Education , seeking help in locating a master craftsman to build a tall tower at the entrance of Withrow High School, his immediate choice is Charles Shear, Sr. Mr. Shear had built a number of the bigger homes on Madison Road, Victoria, Observatory and Erie Avenues. He was recognized for his workmanship and his flair for the dramatic in design.

His goal was to build a tower that would attract all over the Hyde Park area. Withrow High was to become the focal point of the community. It required a stone and cement foundation (12) twelve feet deep, and minimum of twelve feet square. The tower was to be approximately thirty-feet high. Mr. Shear, was not one to cut corners in his work. He had his brick layers carefully lay each brick in his place and meticulously tool each joint. The school, originally named East High, was renamed Withrow High School for former principal John Withrow.

Built in the early 1920's, the tower has not required any serious "rehabbing" other than normal cleaning and tuck pointing of the bricks. It remains a tower of attraction in the Hyde park community, so much that a third generation of Shears, Thomas Shear, grandson of the builder, was permitted to climb to the top when he was elected Top Tiger of Withrow in 1966. Tom's two brothers Patrick and Douglas who is now the Career Education Coordinator for Cincinnati Public Schools and his Uncle Henry, are also Withrow graduates.

The boys mother, Betty Jean Shafer Shear, a daughter and Robert Shafer former business manager of the Board, rounds out a long and devoted family in the Withrow tradition.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES ACADEMY

There are three programs in the International Studies Academy: The World Awareness Program, The International Baccalaureate and The English as a Second Language Program. The International Baccalaureate was designed to provide an integrated two year course of study to prepare students for entry into college throughout the world. The World Awareness Program, an international studies curriculum designed to continue the bilingual program from their middle school. The English as a Second Language is for the foreign-born student who have limited English proficiency.

"Can You Hear The Echoes In Honor of Black History"

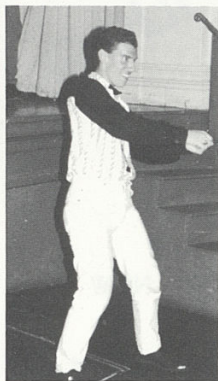

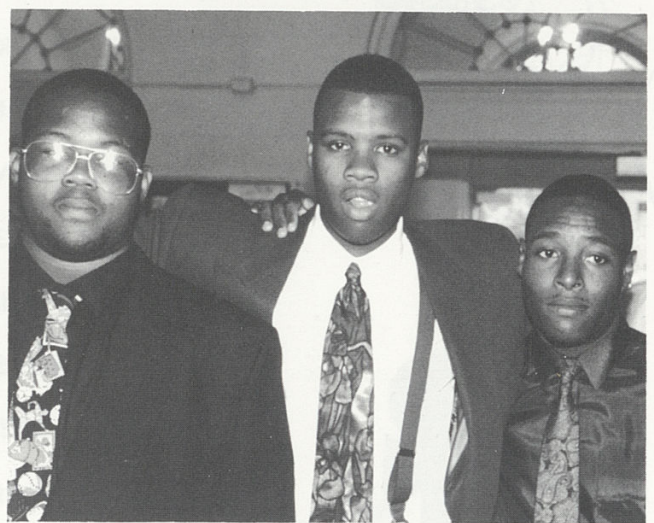

The Black History Program on February 26, 1992 carried us on a history journey of black America. We first visited the Great Kingdoms of Africa through Slavery. Then we heard the echoes of Black America in the 1950's & 60's. Then the journey took us to a New Bondage of Blacks in America in the 90's. Stop destroying our race was the theme but continue to move forward like our ancestors.

CLASS DAY AND AWARDS

Class Day is the last day for seniors no more classes, no more lunch lines and no more going to the locker for books. In the morning Seniors received awards, scholarships and the class president pass the gavel to the new class president. This year Keisha Kemper passed the gavel to John Davis. In the afternoon Dux's and Sig's tapped next year members. We heard many poems of my little sister . . . and oh! those dances from Sig's new brothers.

My Task

To love someone more dearly every day,
To help a wand'ring child to find his way
To ponder o'er a noble tho't and pray
And smile when evening falls. This is my task

And then my Savior by and by to meet,
When faith hath made her task on earth
complete
And lay my homage at the Master's feet
Within the jasper walls. This crowns my task

Cheerleaders shatter old image

We have the score on the board.
We have the game, hooray!
So get ready the Tigers are coming your way.
Tonight's the night we're goin' to fight.
There's no cheatin', no booin'. No cracks about us losin'
'Cause I know we're going to win. Hey, Hey!
Tonight! Hey, hey! Tonight!

BY WALT SCHAEFER
The Cincinnati Enquirer

It's Friday night. The Withrow Tigers burst from the locker room to the cheers of the throng in the bleachers.

Along the sidelines are the girls shaking pompons in their black and orange skirts, wool sweaters emblazoned with TIGERS. As the team readies for the kickoff, the girls begin the chant. The crowd roars.

In reality, there are two teams representing Withrow High School at this Friday night ritual. Yet, most spectators only recognize the boys in shoulder pads and helmets.

What about those girls on the sidelines? Ever notice how good they are? How their movements are synchronized?

These young ladies practice their cheers and chants, their kicks and back flips as much as the football team practices blocking and pass patterns.

"Being on the cheerleading squad is a very prestigious position to have in school. Girls want it," said Linda Childs-Jeter, 40, a teacher in the school's business education department in her 19th year coaching the cheerleaders.

"I think it's a thrill," said Valerie Ragland, 17, a senior varsity cheerleader. "You have to carry yourself well because a lot of people know you. And, you have to get out there with people watching you — and, be crazy."

The stereotype of the cheerleader is changing as is the way they are selected.

At Withrow, academic standing plays a big role in being a cheerleader.

"The girls must maintain a C-plus average at all times or they are removed from the squad," Childs-Jeter said.

And, grades have not been a problem. Most of Withrow's cheerleaders are college-bound.

Senior squad captain, Milbeth Hinton, 17, of North Avondale, plans to study psychiatry. Ragland said she will study neonatology and plans a medical career caring for premature infants. Co-captain Sonya Beatty, 17, plans a technical career in word processing.

"It's good to make sure your grades are up before you do this," said Beatty, a senior. "If your grades are poor you shouldn't have the opportunity to lead cheers. This is a privilege."

Squad captain Hinton noted that "colleges look at applications and being a cheerleader shows that you can do more than one thing and that you are involved in your school and school spirit."

Living by the rules

Cheerleaders should set a good example, Childs-Jeter said. "I'm a disciplinarian." Cheerleaders who exceed 10 demerits a year are removed from Withrow's squad. Infractions resulting in demerits include:

- Wearing jewelry when cheering.
- Violating the dress code covering uniforms.
- Chewing gum.
- Drinking alcohol.
- Being caught in a "hall sweep" — away from the classroom after the bell.
- Acting out in class or teacher discipline for behavior.

"We are not running a popularity contest," Childs-Jeter said. "I look for good young ladies who want to be involved in school activities, promote school spirit and contribute to their community."

The latter involves projects such as registering voters, visiting hospitals to cheer up patients, helping junior high school cheerleaders and planting flowers.

"The year the Bengals went to the Super Bowl, they asked us to join them when they visited Children's Hospital (Medical Center) to cheer up patients. We were in the ward with the children with incurable problems and we cheered them up," Childs-Jeter said. "Those kids really liked us."

There are tough athletic prerequisites to becoming a Withrow cheerleader, too.

"Judges look for good technique, a lot of pep, a nice voice,"

Childs-Jeter said. "We like girls with personality. That's not the same as attractive. We are not looking for 'pretty' but girls who can perform."

Cheerleading means work and time.

Cheerleader tryouts for the football season are held in April with practice beginning in June. The girls must attend a three-week cheerleading camp at Wright State University.

"They learn cheers, formations, gymnastics and even how to get along with others," said Brenda Goshade, the assistant coach and a school secretary.

"We take what we learn from camp and put it together to suit our squad," Ragland said.

Practice, practice, practice

After camp the squad resumes practice for two hours a week in August. Once school begins, they practice two days a week after classes through the year.

Why do these girls spend so much time a week practicing to lead cheers?

■ Ragland: "I enjoy sports and I guess I'm a tomboy. But I'm so little I can't really play (high school) sports. So, this way I get to be involved in the game and support my team."

■ Beatty: "All the girls in my family were cheerleaders. Two of my cousins were cheerleaders here at Withrow. They came home and practiced their cheers in front of me. And, I liked them."

■ Hinton: "I've never watched a whole football game in my life. Before I became a cheerleader, I used to go over on the sidelines and watch the cheerleaders more than the game. It's fun and I have a lot of spirit and energy."

And, it takes a lot of personality and courage to face a few thousand spectators each weekend exhorting fans no matter the score:

T,
I say T-I,
I say T-I-G
I say T-I-G-E
I say T-I-G-E-R
I say T-I-G-E-R-S

The Minority Mentoring Program has helped many students with improving their grades, attendance, and prepare for college. The program also has tutoring for the ACT and SAT test. The program also brought many programs for students to get involved and build leadership abilities. In February they brought us Senator Bowen, Councilman Tyrone Yates and ended the month with a fantastic step show.

PRINCE ADRIEN LUNDY COOPER
PRINCESS GINA ARRINGTON

On May 9, 1992, Withrow's students arrived at Music Hall in fine cars or limousines, dressed in their exquisite attire. Many came to spend this time with someone special. In the race for King and Queen were many excellent candidates but Malynda Jackson and Chuck Crocker were victorious in the end. They were crowned at midnight and took that special dance as King and Queen of the 1992 Prom.

Congratulations Malynda and Chuck.

CLASS OF 1992

Thursday, June 4, 1992 the BIG day was here for all seniors to take that last walk across the bridge. The weatherman on all channels predicted rain. Mr. Lowe and Ms. Walker prepared the auditorium as well as the stadium. Everyone was praying No! Rain! Lord I want all my family to see me graduate. The Lord heard our prayers. As we took that walk the class of 1972 walked with us. Kristin Lierl, valedictorian; Kweli Moyo, salutatorian; and class president number 3 in the class, Kiesha Kemper gave the class of 1992 food for thought and great hope for tomorrow. The speaker for the evening was councilman Tyrone Yates, the president from the class of 1972. When the last diploma was issued there were tears of joy, final good-byes and Hoorays. This means to work for some, to college for others. GOOD LUCK CLASS OF 1992.

A MOTHER'S PRAISE

A Mother's love is tested time and time again
Yet with you my dear daughter, I have peace and serenity within
You give me peace of mind through the attitude that you keep.
Because of this I am one of the rare mothers who has no problem getting to sleep.
You've faced hard obstacle like environmental stress and emotional despair.
You've faced some of life's stumbling blocks without falling into their lairs.
You've come a long way dear daughter, further than you can ever imagined or dreamed.
You've come further than a river that once was just a stream.
I gladly think of you becoming an adult with all the knowledge you've gained.
With all of the wisdom that lies inside your mind waiting to be showered onto this world like a summer's refreshing rain.
I could go on and on praising you my daughter until my vocabulary is drained.
But even then my dear daughter your brother and sister would gladly take up the reigns.
We are so proud of you Kissha, during the last of your high school days.
We also know that this is only the beginning for you and our continuing high praise.
BEST WISHES to you in your upcoming endeavors.

Kissha I Love You.
Your Mother
