

WHO AM I AND WHAT DOES IT MEAN ?

I enjoy who I am and everything that I am about
It's not about materials and its not about clout
It's about what I stand for its about my black glow.

I am the Queen of the Nile and the mother of this earth,
I am the woman who gave black child right to birth.
Beauty,boldness,vibrance it's all me,
When you look into the sun I am the face you see.

The rainbow,the rain,the sun and the clouds,
I smile because I'm me - I smile because I'm proud.
I live through all things and will always have life,
I've made it through pain and I've made it through strife.

What is the point and does it mean ?
Why does every black child have a dream ?
What is a struggle, what is a fight ?
What is it like to truly see the light ?

This means that I am strong, blessed, and born with so much,
That I can make this earth tremble with my slightest touch.
The light is a symbol the light is a gift,
It means that I can leave all my troubles in the midst.

My people were the first of all royal kings and queens,
My people were the first to give this world meaning.
My people were the first to rule any land,
My people were the first to walk on any sand.

Now you remember this and you remember it well,
So that this story your children will tell.
You can try to pack me or stack me- you can even try to bend and send,
But I began the beginning and I will finish the end !
