

"Four score and seven years ago . . ."

"Is this how you say cheese, cameraman?"

. . . All of the students conclude that half the fun of having the Festival is in setting it up. Every year tons and tons of crepe paper and wood are used to decorate booths. Some homerooms go to extravaganzas in decorating their booths to attract customers while others rely on the type of game they play to attract customers . . .

"They are doing it all wrong, they should have consulted me."
