

When Covington Catholic's varsity first took the floor on November 25 against Boone County, no one had the slightest notion of the snowballing effect that this first win would have.

Chosen as the pre-season favorites in the region by most polls in the state, we were determined to make these predictions realities as we literally ran over our opponents in the first half of season play to realize an unbelievable record of 13-0.

Besides the regular season schedule we found ourselves, for the first time, invited to the Ashland and Louisville Invitational Tournaments, two of the most important and prestigious high school basketball events in the state.

Our season had its share of losses and headaches, as can be expected with even the best of teams, but certainly this was the best season yet, no one could ask for more.
