

Band

As Covington Catholic High School has progressed out of the small school stature which it held until recent years, it has developed many of the traits and characteristics which clearly signify its growth into a large school. Probably the greatest of these developments is the Band.

By the hard work and determination of Brother Thomas Salerno, the Band has exceeded the expectations held for it in its infant stage three years ago and has matured into one of this school's greatest assets.

Practically every member of Brother Tom's musical aggregation had never played a musical instrument before entering Covington Catholic, and almost all were taught their skills by Brother Tom himself. Under these circumstances, having a band which could play even one song would be a remarkable fact indeed. However, our quick-learning musicians have displayed great diversification in the compositions which they have romped through in their many appearances before the student body.

We would like to state that, in the future, our Band will undoubtedly progress even further, and would also like to extend a hearty thanks to Brother Tom.

The Band in one of their many assembly appearances.