

Death is urged upon the Son Of Man
by the high priest Anna.

The seniors of the Catholic high schools in this area showed wholehearted support for the Play and their hard work was richly rewarded. It is noteworthy to say that it would literally take a whole page of this book to list those who had something to do with the Play. As Fr. McDermott himself said, "No part is so small that it is unimportant; every part is important to success."

Christ is crucified.