

Here in this yearbook is a record to refer to in the days that will speed by all too fast for those who have graduated with diplomas marked "1962." Yet in the short lifetime ahead, this yearbook should not be just a short sentimental keepsake, but a reminder of the direction to your life that was attempted while you were here at Covington Catholic High School. If this book brings back memories of a year of high school well spent, then surely when life is ending and you look back you will do so with the consolation of knowing that it also has been well spent. If this memory provoking yearbook should remind you of a year or years which you now realize you wasted, then the warning must be heeded that you should now make the effort to see that at the end of life you will not have to say that life has been wasted. Our eternity is made by a life well spent. Each one has only one life to live. Covington Catholic exists to see that as many lives as possible are given correct guidelines to make them truly a success. The school strives to make wise men whose life will be a good one because governed by wisdom.

In classes, assemblies, retreats, and throughout the fabric of your school life you have heard that only in becoming like Christ and bringing Him to all aspects of your surroundings can you hope to gain the happiness of spending your life well. May Our Lady who is our life, our joy, and our hope see that our lives like her life are spent well.

Sincerely in J.M.J.,
Bro. Don
