is a mysterious process sometimes it is slow and graceful . . .

other times it is swift but awkward

it expresses itself
in a variety of modes

but one thing is certain

it is the essence of progress and . . .

Covington Catholic High

is not growing in a concrete and steel sense. Our growth is more vital, more dynamic, more permanent.

It is an expanded curriculum utilizing new approaches in education, permitting everyone to further develop his academic capabilities.

It is a varied activity program which challenges the students of all academic levels.

It is an ever increasing athletic dynasty, inspiring a desire to win in a competitive world.

It is an alive faculty, committed to the needs of modern youth.

It is a student body with a new sense of leadership and involvement.

A school on the move . . .
that's CCH

it is therefore quite fitting that the 1968 annual is dedicated to the man who is largely responsible for our present growth . . .

bro. richard strathern s.m.

This year has seen a great change in ideas at CCH. The man behind this movement is bro. dick strathern.

Trust in the student and the student's responsibility were the focal points. bro. dick, during the summer, planned for a senior religion program in which the student took the responsibility of educating himself with only directive help from the research team. Religion was placed into the life of every senior. In the progressive system instituted by bro. dick the responsibility for behavior was placed where it belongs — on the students themselves. Academically a student received help before it was too late through the "on call" system also introduced this year.

For these and many more reasons we, the student body, gratefully thank bro. dick strathern, a man with the student's welfare foremost in his mind.

academic council

It seems appropriate to introduce the academics section with the most prominent growth in the area. This is the Academic Council, a group which appeared at CCH for the first time this year. The council provides for the changes in the field of academics, improving, whenever possible, the studies and the curriculum of the student body.

social studies

The field of social studies is probably one of the strongest at CCH. The student begins his study with the very general courses of World History and U.S. History offered in the freshman and sophomore years. He may then specialize in his particular interest of study with the National or Modern History courses offered as electives in the junior and senior years. History is an ever-changing subject and it is the aim of the social studies department to keep in step with it.

religion

Religion has become a much more meaningful course this year at CCH, especially in the senior division. The fourth year curriculum has included many noted speakers and films. These enabled the seniors to get a look at all the sides of the problems which seem to be pressing in our world today. Discussion has become a very vital part of religion. By discussion students are forced to think about the problems. Taking their cue from the seniors, the underclassmen also shared in the growth. On the whole these courses gave the students a real look at the world around them.

Latin, German and French comprise the courses under this title. Varied approaches have been taken in the instruction of these languages. Film strips, movies, tapes and outside literature all have been used in a continuing effort to grow in the direction of a progressive program. Translating, reading and grammar have been stressed in varied degrees, all striving to enlighten the students to the greatest extent. Constant effort insured better classes and a greater degree of learning.

The practical subjects of the business world have been presented in a manner which would be most beneficial to the students. Bookkeeping and economics included the facts and a working knowledge in order to equip the students with the necessary tools for their success in these areas in the business world. The ever-changing field of economics provides the many facets needed for an interesting, many sided class.

business

The English courses are the most important courses a student takes at CCH. In the four regular courses and in the elective courses of journalism and public speaking and film study, the student learns how to creatively write and speak his language. From his freshman to his senior year he is led on a fantastic journey through English and American literature.

english

Theory is an important aspect of any school and the art course is a perfect example of theory in practice. For one hour each day the student escapes from the world of textbooks and slide rules and has a chance to express himself, to work with his hands, and to create.

physical education

In an attempt to develop a student in every aspect of his being, physical education is included in the curriculum. One's activities vary from exercises and running to organized games of baseball, soccer and basketball. Tumbling and other forms of gymnastics are also not forgotten in the building of Colonels.

science

The ever-changing fields of the sciences provide the variations of subject matter necessary for dynamic courses. With the elective courses of second year biology and chemistry there is available a curriculum able to nourish any student's curiosity. Learning is shown in its many facets as one advances in his study of science at CCH.

mathematics

Math at CCH provides a person with a choice of levels. If interested, he can pursue this subject up to pre-calculus or advanced senior math. This year trigonometry was introduced as a more advanced course.

guidance

Guidance is characterized by the helping of a student by a qualified, but easy to talk to, faculty member. In this aspect of a student's life at CCH his problems, both in studies and in his personal life, are considered. His progress is evaluated and a truthful estimate of his abilities and future prospects are made in the interest of the student. Even more than ever his abilities were taken into consideration in his academic placement this year.

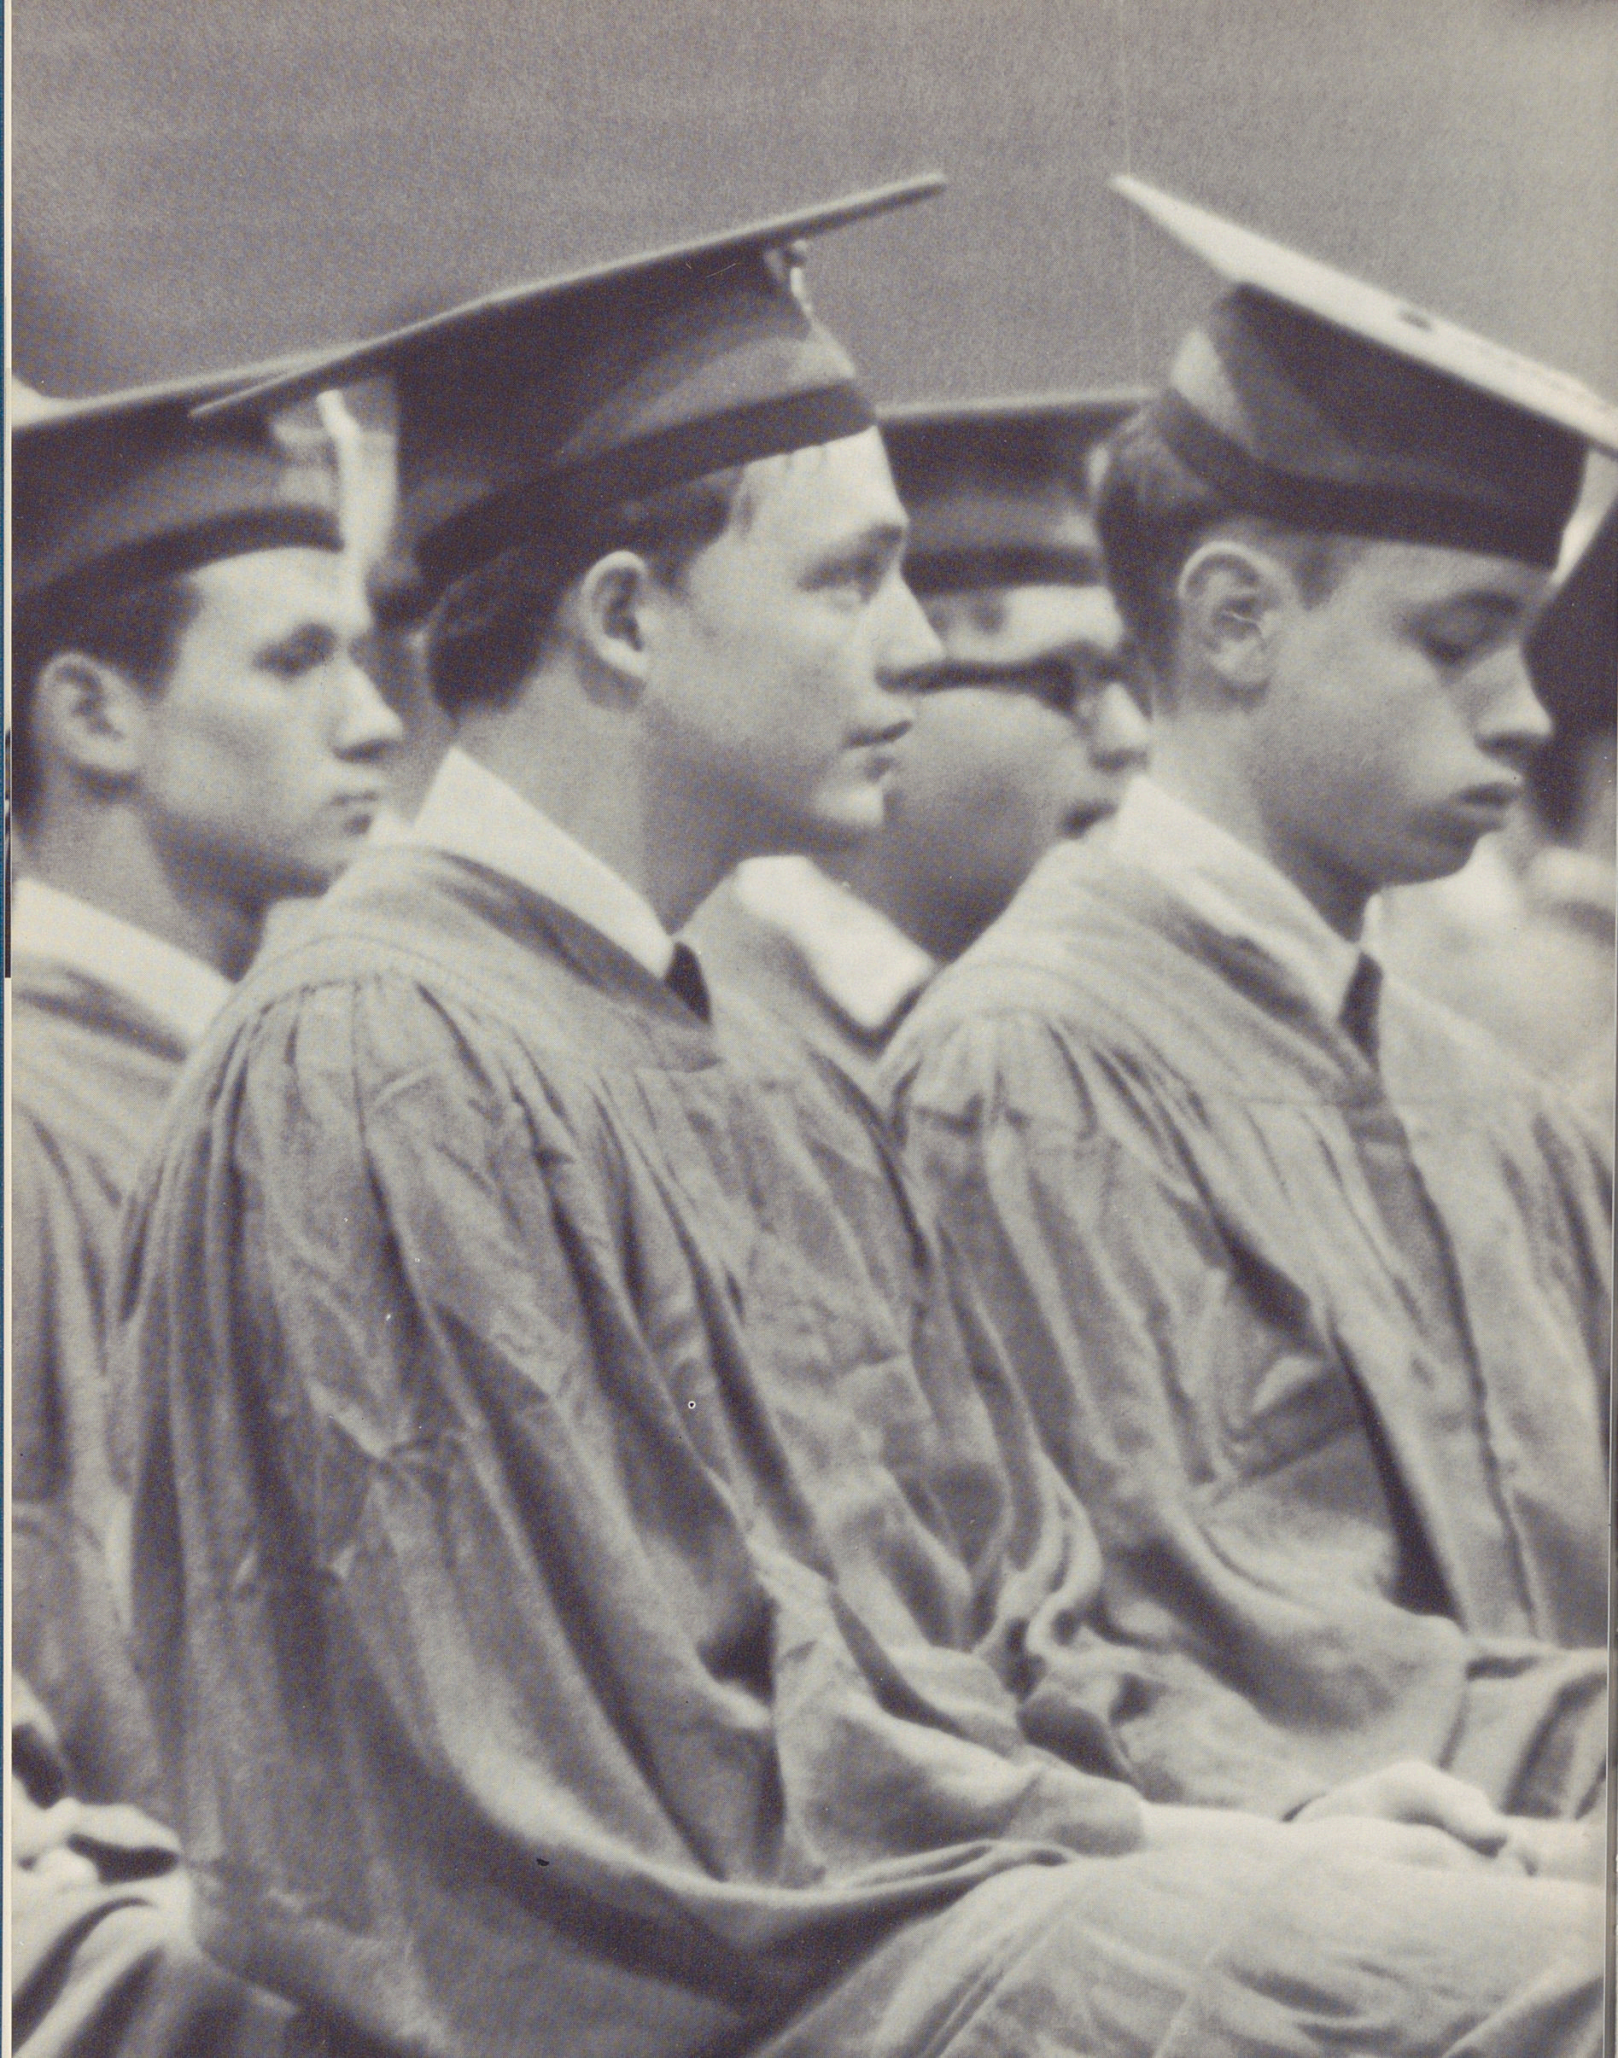

The "It's Academic" team coached by fr. john mcdermott this year included bob wieck, jim zerhusen, charlie stander and alternate ed wolking. Even though they did not meet with success, the team did offer a good representation of CCH.

graduation

Graduation, for the seniors, marks the end of a four year struggle for higher education. Some await the end of this period with sadness, others look toward their future. Graduation also means a time for academic awards and covington catholic is not wanting in this category. Charles stander was the salutatorian while robert wieck performed the duties of the valedictorian for the class of 1968. This year's ceremonies took place in the cathedral on the seventh of june.

spring festival

Despite the cold and rainy days of may, a new endeavor — the spring festival — was a big success. Through the efforts of the parents association, boosters, alumni, and students, who pooled their efforts, the weekend festivity became a reality. Although the weatherman refused to cooperate, things went well and, following the awarding of the oldsmobile 442, the administration looked to improvement next year.

coney day

Tuesday may 23 saw the arrival of the annual coney day. This year like all others covington catholic students enjoyed the day to the best of their ability. Many were in high spirits as the warm weather mixed with the enjoyment of the park itself provided quite a holiday.

The decorations ranging from a gaily flowing oriental fountain to japanese lanterns transformed cincinnati convention center into a southeast asian paradise. The not-so-quiet strains of jimmy stokely and the exiles stirred the crowd into a dancing spirit. The after-prom party given by the parents association drew the couples to the town and country restaurant and the music of the long island sound. For everyone the prom created a night that surely will be remembered as one of the best ever.

Dimmed lights, good music, and anticipation are the words that describe the mood of covington catholics's first homecoming. Saint joe's hall was gaily decorated with a goal post at one end, it was under this goal post that mary burke and jim zerhusen, the school's first homecoming royalty, were enthroned. As you walked from the throne you noticed the drawings of senior football players which were cleverly placed on the walls. And at the other end of the hall everyone danced to the music of the "profs." The evening was truely a success and one that will always be remembered by this year's senior class.

lodge festival

This annual gala event for the benefit of campbell lodge boy's home was a greater success by far than in past years. Each division put forth much effort in preparing their booths for the affair. Long hours were spent by many in transforming the gym into a colorful kalaide-scope of crepe paper, cardboard, and flashing lights. Many prizes were raffled, ranging from a live puppy to a honda scrambler. The cafeteria was packed as everyone danced to the music of the corvairs. Truly this goes to show what the students of CCH can accomplish when they are unified in one effort.

If i said that the student council was a complete success this year i would be a fool, but to say that it was a total failure is also absurd. The council was slow getting started, many projects failed to achieve previous successes and in general school spirit was low but, i believe this year's council will stand out because of the significant changes that were made. A more efficient, business-like atmosphere was instilled into the legislative meetings and the organizational structure. We laid the foundation for an extensive committee system and we experimented with new communication methods and evaluations. This year was a year of change, a year of experimentation and to be honest with you, we experienced our growing pains.

Under the direction of bro. mike trainor, s.m., the club attended as many tournaments as possible, and brought back honors from six of them. speech and debate, for those who do not know, is an organization whose purpose is to advance and further the art of public speaking. Divided into two divisions, debate and speech, the former's self explanatory, while speech events entail anything from poetry reading to telling a story. The speech and debate club members are required to keep long hours, and give up most of their saturdays during the winter, but the time and effort is worth it when the medals, ribbons and trophies are brought home.

In the first edition of the '67-'68 CONTACT there appeared an article concerning the new Senior religion program which was started this school year. To give you a clear idea of what has been received in this class the original now works worker, Bruce Cincinnati idea Re

Business manager mark gehring, activities editor paul o'daniel, sports editor jack bogaczyk, and features editor charlie stander prepare contact for publication.

This year, a new format was introduced in the everimproving contact. Under the ever steady hand of editor-in-chief rich lemker, the paper was broken down into 3 parts: features, activities and sports. In addition to this move for quality, the quantity was also improved as the first friday of each month saw a new edition. The features section, handled by charlie stander, covered the highlights of the '67-'68 school year, such as homecoming, compell lodge festival, and senior "team teaching" program. paul o'daniel served as the activities man, and brought us the news on the various clubs around covington catholic. The sports editor, jack bogaczyk, combined his journalism talent with his sports interest to give CCH the best sports coverage ever. Besides these factions, the riotous colonel's corner brought laughter to all. The funny "pen-men" were bill kathman, gary epplen, ed shields, and jim mchughan.

The annual staff tried to present people and events of the year. Those students who achieved competence in sports worked and those who worked in school functions were recognized for their efforts. The book began in november when a small group of seniors and one faculty member decided to give a new outlook to our school. The staff began to learn how to crop a picture properly, edit pages and passages, and finance a publication. As deadlines approached the planning became actions. Working until the end of may, the book was finally complete. It is hoped that all those who read this book will find enjoyment from it.

art

Many long hours were spent by the members of this organization printing ribbons, posters and other artwork in order to instill spirit in the student body. Under the direction of bro. paul, the club turned out many of these eye-catching items, for basketball games, football games, and other events. This year has truly been one of success for the art club.

Coach rasso shares his experience with quarterback corbett.

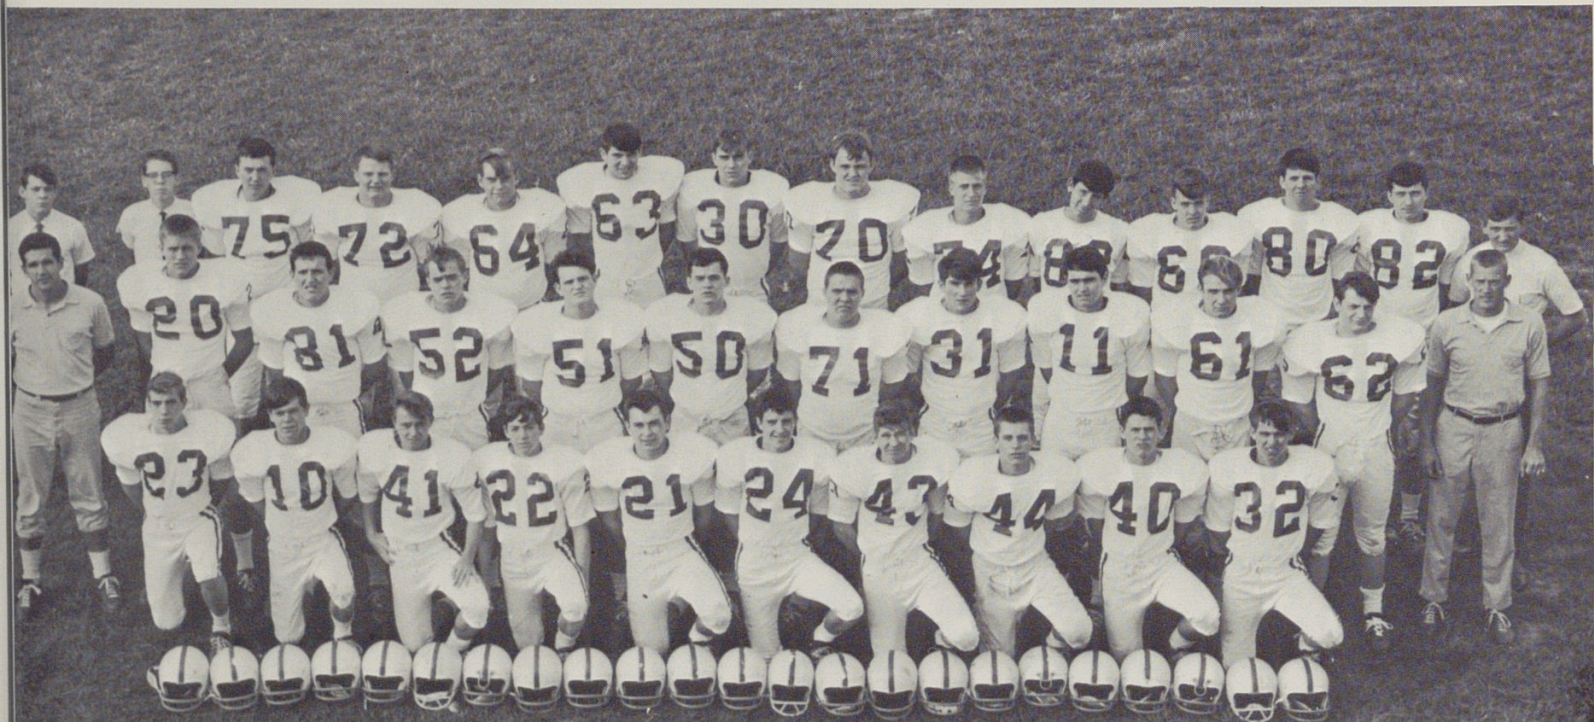

A new area of interest was opened to colonel fans as the first varsity football squad was unveiled. Measures were taken by coach steve rasso to mold a group of inexperienced boys into a well-disciplined grid iron team. The '67 squad initiated football history at covington catholic with a winning season.

The colonels opened the year on september 1, with a 20-7 victory over newport. In the first home encounter, catholic fell to lexington lafayette, 7-0. Following a 12-6 win over boone county, came the most crippling defeat of the season. The colonels fell to ashland, the AA champion, 30-0. With their record at 2-2, the colonels came back on 8-6 squeaking over russell. Traveling to louisville to face shawnee, our gridgers suffered a 7-6 setback. The colonels then seemed to find their offense in a 19-7 conquest of boyd county. To the surprise of many, covington deadlocked undefeated williamsburg, ohio, 7-all. Many school records were set in the 34-7 homecoming victory over berea. This win assured the rookie colonels of a .500 mark. The pigskin finale paired covington catholic with highly-touted hamilton badin. Losing to the rams, the colonels completed their first season of grid wars with a 5-4-1 slate.

The varsity can expect a helping hand from the members of the JV squad. From their performances this past season it appears that covington catholic has a promising football future. The reserve gridders competed with the top GCL and local powers. In his first year at the helm, coach phil belmont did a fine job as the colonels finished with a 3-3-2 slate despite playing such a rough schedule. bob reuss was deemed the most valuable player. steve stephan was picked as the best defensive lineman, while dave macmahon was the best defensive back. dan beckridge received the best offensive lineman award, and bill brink took home the best offensive back award.

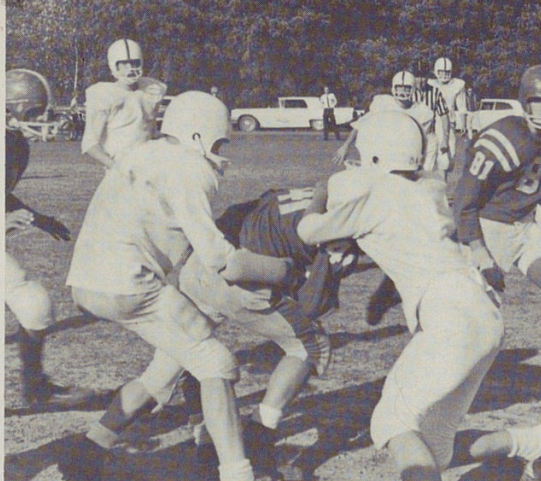

The reserves have too tough a line.

The JV defense is hard to escape.

The future looks rewarding for football at covington catholic as the freshmen finished with the best record of the school's three teams. Under the fine coaching of dan weber, the frosh gridders completed a rough schedule of the top area teams with a 5-3 slate. Highlights of the season included a season-opening conquest of GCL power moeller, 14-8. A 25-7 rout over st. xavier made known the strength of our colonels. The final game matched covington catholic with undefeated campbell county. The camels fell before the colonels, 13-7. The 1967-68 season was a year of many joys and disappointments. Guided by the expert coaching of "mote" hils, the colomels captured the 9th region championship. The crown earned them a berth in the state tournament, in which they met their final disappointment. The year saw a milestone in mr. hils career. Among the 25 wins was his 100th victory as a colonel. Being rated in the top ten all year as the result of many stunning conquest was a welcomed joy. The year included the 34th district champs bringing home the AIT runner-up trophy.

Sparked by the 35 point performance of randy noll, the colomels opened the season with a 77-58 win over lasalle. Catholic next traveled to maysville and crushed highly touted maysville public, 84-56. Harrison county, sporting an alert and quick defense, ended the colonel's win streak at seven, with a 75-69 decision. The following night, louisville male, the states top team, spanked the colomels, 61-47. Covington opened the AIT with a 73-66 victory over louisville central. noll's 26 coupled with ron droege's 20 paved the way. The second game saw a 59-53 win by the colomels over lexington lafayette. Shelby county hung on for a 72-71 win in the championship game. The colomels, spurred on by the last period play of tony kreimborg, beat holmes 54-42. After an opening round win over manual, shawnee is the LIT stumbling block with a 69-66 win over the colomels. john vonlehman pulls in 27 rebounds in a 74-67 thriller over newport. Roger bacon poses plenty of trouble for the northern kentuckians, before a 30 point 4th quarter earns the colomels a 71-69 victory. On may 2, covington catholic won the 34th district with a 67-48 conquering of beechwood. A week later the colomels won the region with a 84-52 rout of campbell county. All-stater randy noll scored 33 points, collected 21 rebounds, and had 8 assists in the victory. Catholic's quest for the state title ended abruptly with a 74-70 heartbreaking loss to glasgow, the eventual champion.

regional champions

Our colonels once again proved to be the basketball power in northern kentucky by bringing home the 34th district and 9th region trophies. The repetition of last year's feat was only the second time in the history of the school. Being heavy favorites had no jinx on our cagers as they made a return trip to the "sweet sixteen." Easy victories over ludlow and beechwood earned the district title for catholic. In doing so three players were placed on the all district team. This honor was given for the second time in as many years to randy noll and jimmy cooper. joe voskuhl was also chosen. Next they downed highlands, dixie, and campbell county by comfortable margins. Thus making covington catholic the best team in the region and securing a berth in the state tournament.

Most valuable player, rick wulfeck, lets one go.

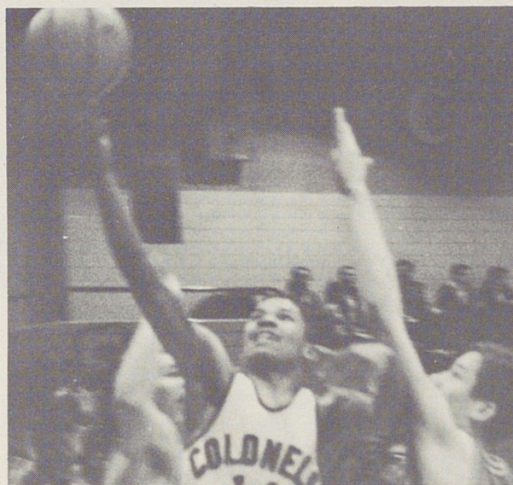

Based on the performance of this year's junior varsity, it appears that covington catholic will continue to reign as the best team in the region and one of the most powerful in the state. Under the guidance of coach "hep" cronin, the colonels finished with a fantastic 19-1 slate. On their way to the regional crown, they avenged their earlier one point setback by routing newport catholic 62-46. On february 23, covington catholic defeated st. thomas 55-39, to capture the school's first junior varsity regional title. The most valuable player was rick wulfeck. The best offensive player award went to bill topmiller and the best defensive player was ray derkson. wendell stowers was the most improved player.

Like the other two teams, the freshmen captured the regional crown. This feat, which coach ralph bogenschutz also accomplished two years ago, was the school's second freshmen title. The frosh cagers compiled a tremendous 28-1 slate. The colonels had few weaknesses due to the scoring antics of richard derkson, jim rippe, and bill holocher. The rebounding and defensive strength of jon votel, andy von lehman, and chuck berger was also a valuable asset.

Dear Colonels,

CCH witnessed another year of growth 1967-1968. For the first time enrollment passed the 800 mark. The largest senior class in the history of the school graduated in June, while an even larger number of 8th grade boys made application to enter in September.

Growth in number must be matched by growth in spirit. Academic excellence along with Christian values is the hallmark of a successful Catholic school. Through a program of self-evaluation the various departments have sought to recognize the strengths and weaknesses of CCH.

We can look back on many examples of academic progress, a wonderful record in sports, another fabulously successful play, a religion program geared to modern needs. These are some of the things making CCH great. Please God it can become greater.

Sincerely yours in J.M.J.,

While at Covington Catholic gary schierberg was an active participant in all intramurals. gary never seemed to blow his cool and was able to collect many good friends during his four year stay. Next stop for gary — college.

ronald schilling is a man who has a "nose" for value and a great sense of humor. He probably held the record for most test days missed and most unusual laugh. He was very popular in and out of school and participated in many activities which can't be mentioned here.

jim schlitt is a quiet kind of guy whose interest for the future is very extensive. Hobbies include reading and word contests. thomas more is jim's next stop in the future.

bill schlosser was a very personable member of our class having devoted himself to several activities. bill next plans to enter studies for the marianist brotherhood.

mark schneider or schneid or just plain web was a well known sight at CCH and all of its functions. Web could always be found at the meets, games, and matches of our athletic teams. Mark plans to attend Ohio State in the fall and study veterinary medicine.

Although not too active in school, jack schroeder's outside interests made him a great friend to his companions. He intends to take geology and geography at the sparkling campus of u.k. in the future.

jack schulte was one of Catholic's socializers. He was known and liked by one and all during his stay at CCH. His plans for tomorrow include further study at u.k.

class of 68

roger schwartz, as one of the best artists in the senior class, plans to attend tmc, where he will probably major in art. The "dodger" has made a lasting impression on the students during his four years, and will continue to do so throughout his life.

steve schwartz will be remembered for his hard work on studies and various activities. In his senior year alone he lent able assistance to the campell lodge festival and manned the light for south pacific. He will attend thomas more to study chemistry.

As a mild-mannered individual, gene seissiger excelled in keeping the school rules. His spirit enabled him to join the senior class play. gene plans to continue his studies at brevard junior college in florida.

pat sheehy is a true realist. He knew and accepted the school for what it was worth. His future plans include college.

When the classes get boring ed shields is always there with his comical relief. His humor can be found in the famed colonel's corner where he writes poems, puns and satires. Seriously though, when it comes to great person, ed is at the top of the list.

dick siegrist, better known as rabbit, was always around when help was needed. Be it lending a helping hand to the fr. beiting drive or the senior class play, dick always got the job done. He should have little trouble making his mark in life.

Through his understanding of people, john siemer won himself many friends at CCH. This concern makes it necessary for him to go into pre-med studies at northern kentucky community college.

dan smith's good-natured personality and his academic ability made his a standout in the class of '68. dan's become well-known for his unusual motorcycles feats and the fellows he associates himself with.

dave synder's interest in science has prompted him to pursue the field of electrical engineering at thomas more college. dave's school spirit was evident in his tireless work on the play and his spirited participation in intramurals.

dave sprankle has been a fun loving character during all four years at CCH. His great sense of humor is known throughout the entire student body. His constant frolics will bring him a great future on the stage. But he can also be very serious at will.

bob staggenborg, formally referred to as r. gerry, will be remembered as the philosopher of our senior class. He possessed an uncanny ability to speak in terms over the heads of even the deepest of students. bob, always a mystery to most of us, plans college in the future.

seniors

charles stander is a well known person around school. You will find him in all aspects of the school's schedule. He has been in the student senate for 3 years. In sports he is tops for his small but mighty size. Charlie was also the statistician for our basketball team.

gary stolz's comic character and mischievous ways made him well liked. He had always kept up his grades to complete his plans of entering u.k. to study electrical engineering.

dave strategier, affectionately known as "strats," made attempts at doing good for our school. His frosh year saw him on the basketball squad and since has devoted his athletic abilities to the field of intramurals. As a student strats looks forward to college.

marty stulz can be classified as a very likable individual. He enjoys having good clean fun, but always managed to maintain good grades in school. He plans to attend the university of kentucky and major in history.

chris summe is an active participant in many school functions. "twiss" has enjoyed the success that few students have known. He is a good student, a hard worker, and his personality is unrivalled anywhere.

bill thaman did not get into any activities while at CCH, but he made up for this with his wit and timely comments, in addition to being a good student. bill plans to attend thomas more college after graduation from CCH.

rick trumble loved to play sports of all discriptions during his free time. Although not exactly sporting a perfect attendance he greatly profited from his education at CCH. The future will find rick studying at o.c.a.s.

fred van de geer was not an "outstanding" student in his four years here, but this did not make him unknown. He was always willing to give help when it was needed. He served as treasurer in his homeroom for 3 years, and acted in the senior class play.

gregory voegtle is a likeable kind of guy and easily makes friends. He was an active worker on the senior class play, and campbell lodge festival. He also took part in intramurals all four years. He plans to attend the ohio college of applied science to take electronics.

mark voet favorite hobbies are cars and working lights and amplifiers. Mark has worked 2 years in the senior play crew. He plans to attend college.

class of '68

rick von hoene was a well known and well liked student at CCH. His great personality and sense of humor to match won him many lasting friends. Based on the past and judged by the present rick will surely succeed in the future.

chester wartman came to Covington Catholic from saint ann's with a very good attitude about trying to get ahead. He is very good at getting away with his bad faults but tries to do his best. Chester plans to enter the marines after graduation.

bob waymeyer's knack for sports shows through his active participation in intramurals. He loves to travel and in the future plans to go and see places. Could this be a reflection on the fact that he lives in ludlow?

dave wear, better known as polar bear to the basketball team, was a devoted manager of both football and the basketball team in his senior year. dave's good personality will not soon be forgotten by his many friends.

bill wehr, more commonly known as "wild bill," is known for his down to earth attitude. Bill has often received academic honors and is considered a leader by all his teachers and friends. Bill plans to enter the coast guard after graduation.

joe weiler, whose natural ability to fall asleep anywhere awarded him the nickname sleepy, was always active in homeroom affairs and looks to the future with many goals and high hopes.

jim wieck spent a very active four years at CCH. Jim was always a willing worker in his homeroom and served as secretary of the student council in his senior year. He threw the shots for the track team in his senior and lettered in football in his senior year.

robert wieck, probably the best known senior throughout the school, bob certainly made his mark at Covington Catholic. Not only a fine athlete, bob also excelled in activities and academics. As president of the student council he led the school government to a successful year.

mark wilmhoff contributed a great deal in his four years, most notably in his keen sense of humor, a few literary gems and predictions, a long list of impersonations and even a year of track. His friendly disposition will grant him success at u.k.

ed wolking, "edge," is an expert and avid fan of every sport on the book. He is also a natural debator of any topic which arises. He is a good natured, humorous and intelligent, and ranks in the upper echelon of academic students in the class.

seniors

fred wolking's good humor and likableness won his many friends during his four years at CCH. His part time job, however, limited his activeness in school projects and sports.

charlie wuerth's ability to associate with people rewarded his with undying popularity. Evidence of this can be seen as he undertook chief roles in cheerleading as well as the student senate. He will be looking "down in the mouth" as he will pursue dentistry at u.k.

Even though large in size, jerry wurtz was active in intramural sports. jerry always put forth the utmost effort in the class as well as on the athletic field. His good nature was evident to all who knew him. A future in math is jerry's present plan.

bob zembrodt has been gifted with tremendous mechanical ability and he has displayed this in his performance at the vocational school. A daily job has somewhat limited his time for school activities but he has helped his homeroom in drives and projects.

Covington Catholic High School will long remember the quiet, yet complete participation of george zerhusen. george rarely missed a basketball game and always worked hard on the campell lodge festival. george will begin in june to study for the franciscan brotherhood.

During his four years at CCH jim zerhusen has willingly devoted his time and talent to numerous clubs and activities including sodality, contact, student council, yearbook, and the cross-country team. He is a sure candidate for "most likely to succeed."
