

CLASSES

IN AMERICA The use of many different textbooks and the privilege of freely discussing in the classroom any subject, makes for more intelligent young people highly capable of forming their own opinions and solving world-wide problems.

IN EUROPE Everything that is printed must first be censored. Only that which is partial to the government may be read by the public. They have no way of knowing the actual status of things, in other parts of the world.