The Mariemont High School band has had a very successful year this year, and much of its success can be credited to A. F. Downer, band director. The band has performed at almost all of the school activities this year. It was fortunate enough to be able to play at all of the football games at home and away. It was at these games that the band showed its marching ability. Assisted by the majorettes and drum major, the band went through its marching maneuvers with flying colors. The band was also fortunate enough to be able to play at most of the basketball games. The main attraction of the band this year has been its annual band concert, which was held in the auditorium on April 30. Among the feature attractions was a song composed by Wayne Montgomery. The featured soloists were Wayne Montgomery, Ralph Montgomery, and Natalie Steinman. Another project of the band this year was a paper drive. This was given to raise some much needed revenue for the band fund. Through the efforts of the hard working band members and Mr. Downer, part of that money was collected. Although this year has been a successful one, the band is looking forward to an even more successful one next year.
