

Withrow's sophomores take a traffic course as a prerequisite for the driver's training course. These classes were recently installed in the curriculum of high schools as the result of the increasing number of traffic accidents and fatalities in Cincinnati. Mr. Stevens and Mr. Renshaw, teachers of traffic, are testing the quickness and reaction of a student. With the use of devices of this kind along with other illustrative materials, second year students learn the whys and wherefores of our traffic system.
