

The solemn beauty of this musical assembly made an impression never to be forgotten. An excellent effect was produced by the off-stage singing of the choir. The Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs and the Junior Choir all sang the especially arranged anthems superbly. The candlelight added to the quiet dignity of the opening scene, as the choir marched down the aisle. During the singing, one row of candles remained lighted and their radiance mingled with the variation of soft hues which were played upon the singers' faces. The organ's tones were deep, rich, and appealing as Mary Stansford or Bill Graig touched its keys. To the hushed audience Bob Shafer and Sam Sifers impressively read from the Scriptures the familiar and well-loved Christmas Story. A tremendous amount of time and effort were spent on the preparing of this splendid production. However, the excellence of the performance proved the worth of every moment of time and every ounce of energy expended.
