

Scribblers's 1951 president, Catherine Ziegler, serves tea during an initiation meeting of these promising penmen.

Scribblers, upper picture. Row 1—P. Thomas; R. Van Billiard; M. Endebrock; S. Selkirk; J. Rice; M. Newbold; D. Vigard; M. Leifheit; I. King; P. Sigler; C. Ziegler; E. Probst; M. Simmons; B. Adkins; M. Klappert; M. Jones. Row 2—D. Smith; J. Hallerman; M. Weiss; P. Frede; A. Pinson; M. Smits; S. Seilkop; B. Tegel; R. Lange; J. Hain; J. Betz; M. McCollum; M. Ashman.

Philologia, lower picture. Row 1—R. Barnes; H. Blaney; T. Brown; J. Hattendorf; E. Mueller; J. Koch; D. Krehbiel; G. Zinninger; W. Smith; T. Evans; W. Markel; W. Holloman; R. Clem. Row 2—J. Longnaker; V. Jacobs; A. Gortsas; Mr. Srofe; W. Crosset; P. Aglamesis; J. Srofe.

The fifty junior and senior boys of Philologia gather for a business meeting, both humorous and serious extemporaneous speeches, and panel discussions on current affairs to develop proficiency in parliamentary procedure. Scribblers, girls' literary society of Withrow fosters an interest in literature and encourages original production. These thirty juniors and seniors meet to hear book reviews and to give original plays. A book is presented to a meritorious senior on Award Day. Miss Wood and Mr. Srofe hold the responsible positions of advisers to these two societies honoring star English students.

originality is expressed in essays and panel talks.

†The presidents, David Krehbiel and Howard Blaney, once every year are able to line up the organization in quasi-order.

