Not so many years ago people were still washing clothes in a tub and heating water on a stove. Once in a great while an opera company or a circus would come to town to offer some amusements, but the tired housewife was just too tired to be bothered about them. We of the modern day and age are much more fortunate. We press a button and our washing is done. Press another button and our clothes are dried. If it is a warm shower or bath we want just turn a knob and hot water is there.

Amusements? How about stepping into the living-room and turning on that T.V. set? All the best shows are there literally in your living-room. Maybe you would rather listen to the radio or phonograph, just turn it on.

Modern science has invented these marvelous machines for us to use. The Phil Stewart Electric Shop sells these modern wonders at low and convenient prices. Why not make your next electrical purchase at the
