

Facets

Facets! Follow us through these pages to find how you make Withrow what it is and how our many-sided school determines a major portion of your life and character. Our interpretation of Withrow involves Facets—plane minute surfaces of a cut gem. These surfaces are numerous, each reflecting light in a different manner. All of these Facets, or sides, unite to form the sparkling gem in its entirety. The Annual Staff is paralleling Withrow with such a jewel. Many of you fail to respond to the manifold facets of Withrow whether they be material or emotional. Everything at Withrow makes up her Facets—the activities, the faculty, and you, the most essential part—perhaps a glimpse of the passing scene, a moment of elation, of triumph, or a moment of sadness, or defeat. The separate Facets of your school are here waiting for you, the student body, to help formulate them into a complete, intricate mechanism. All our Facets are derived from you, the individual—achieving, combining, and uniting. The impact of these Facets can be strong, the delight, intense, depending on how you, the craftsmen of Withrow's Facets develop them. In selecting the word Facets as the theme we hope that we have succeeded in relating it so that you will be aware of these Facets; and many years from now when you take the book from its dusty hiding place, it will renew all your memories of Withrow.
