

Let's peek into Miss Shaffer's third period history class. The question of who was going to be our next president had caused a great problem. As we see by the posters the feeling was quite evenly distributed, but Phyllis Hamlin seemed sure which of the candidates would be her choice!

Are the plains sear or fertile-or the mountains snow-capped and sheer? Do seas have warm currents flowing? Are there inland lakes of salt brine? Geography answers questions such as these for the inquiring beginner.
