

Groans or smiles appear as necessary changes are made.

From Edison's first to today's fluorescent.

"Face Lifted"—now a sunny outlook.

What a maze Withrow becomes as painters, electricians, and plasterers invade the premises with their brushes, buckets, wires, and other mysterious gadgets! To have a complete day in regular classrooms actually seems an oddity in some cases. Teachers sadly discover that a scheduled quiz cannot be given; students rejoice in having a class in the auditorium. Dark, dingy rooms and corridors are transformed into bright ones. As the final touches crown this coat of many colors; hardships endured seem slight.

Plasterers and painters supply "the new look" to a seemingly enormous number of ceiling cracks and the stadium railings.
