

Row 1—J. Cooper; G. Greene; S. Morten; B. Berle; S. Bishop; E. Lauderback; G. Marshall. Row 2—P. Taylor; A. Schwettman; A. Satterfield; D. Scott; S. Jarvis; A. Santoro; A. Rice; R. Wilson. Row 3—D. Mayers; S. Usher; D. Hobson; S. Shaffer; R. Bush; V. Wolfe; S. Evans; D. Currens. Row 4—S. Kalameres;

D. Riggs; B. Scherer; P. Linn; B. Swanson; J. Fink; B. Grosse; C. Fisher. Row 5—D. Isgrig; W. Shannon; A. Edwards; E. Lallunski; E. Fray; D. Lerner; V. Pyles; D. DeVore. Row 6—L. McCord; R. Witschger; D. Agger; B. Gayle; S. DeWeese.

Democracy in school is exemplified in the election of Student Council members. Each spring a representative from each homeroom is elected for the council. Members at large are then selected to make the representation from each class equal. Out of these the group chooses four people whom they think will best carry out their aims and purposes. This year Ed Heiser heads this resolute organization. Taking charge of projects is John Godley, vice-president, while Roberta Karnes assumes the title of Chancellor of the Exchequer and Gwenn Miller records each meeting's data. New policies are invoked by them.

"Don't gum up the works," plead Student Council members, waging ever necessary clean-up campaigns. Each year posters and blotters constantly remind the student body of this drive. Another worthwhile project is the provision of napkins in the lunchroom. The value of the recent addition to the main hall is illustrated by the number of people who flock to use the phone after school. To promote school spirit the council sold shakers and ended the victorious football season with The Football Fantasy. With the proceeds from this dance our snappy cheerleader costumes were bought.

Student Council Pep Assembly features Senior Choir.

