

Above. Row 1—G. Flamm; W. Darling; G. Kern; B. Berle; J. Chambers; J. Brucher. Row 2—Mr. Srofe; D. Garmes; D. Isgrig; E. Heiser; K. Aplin; G. Albrect; D. Limenstall. Row 3—B. Harden; D. Synder; W. Fey. Below. J. Chambers; B. Berle; W. Fey.

Philologia, the honorary English and social studies society, is intended primarily to help develop the ability to speak extemporaneously. Therefore the members are often assigned such topics as "The Effects of Purple Birdseed on the Mongolians" in addition to the serious discussions of current problems. Besides learning by doing, the club under Mr. Srofe's direction, puts on a shindig for Scribblers.

with the last chapter missing, it is Working on the theory that mental tortures are worse than physical discomforts, Philologia tries to make complete nervous wrecks of its initiates.

