On January 2, 1953, the first annual Public High School League Basketball Carnival was held at the Cincinnati Garden. It could have been "Withrow's Carnival" to judge from the results. The Tigers were on the winning team (teams from the eastern part of the PHSL played those from the western half alternately in 10 minute periods); they scored the most points in one period, and Driskell tied for high scorer. On top of all this, Janet McIntosh was crowned Queen of the Carnival by Mayor Carl W. Rich.

Driskell fights his way through a forest of arms; but misses the shot; nevertheless, the foul was good.
