

G. A. A.

When arrows whiz past, people wonder if Robin Hood's descendants are as notorious as Robin himself in their frequent practices, pluck tournaments, and invariably windy playdays.

G. A. A.—the facet of

Aiming for the top, Sue, Ann, Nan, Ellen, and Betty, stand with bows arched high. They attained the top scores in the archery tournament. This spring, at their weiner roast, the archers "pinned" arrows on the donkey.

