

Nimble fingers are required for art and stenography.

What's in a line; what's in a color? After a session here, we wonder more than ever. Here's the class that furnishes us with the future boss-sitters of the business world.

Calling all bottle caps, odd bits of rope, steel wool, leaves, tin cans, spools, and buttons: these are the materials necessary to help our too sophisticated "R a p h a e l s" complete their varied collages. After adding a few geometric figures, some sculpture, and some basic principles of art, they proudly bring forth their masterpieces, concoctions simply out of this world.

In stenography classes, girls learn to use the dictaphone and to improve their shorthand in preparation for a future job. By the time the course has been completed each student is more than ready to meet the trials and tribulations of the business world.
