

The hardest year, and yet the most fun—that's the story the juniors give us. Now they begin to look beyond high school, through college and vocational conferences. The more brainy eleventh graders face such perplexing subjects as physics and bookkeeping. Offsetting these are activities like Scribblers and Philologia. Juniors only regret that they have but one year left at Withrow. Those lucky freshmen, just starting.

Now settled and very much at home in Withrow,

I'll study hard on just what I don't know; The heck with it all, now to bed I will go; Here's hoping my knowledge the bluebook will show!
