

March 28 through May was baseball time at Withrow. Hopes for the 1950 season, Mr. Huheey's sophomore year at the helm of the baseball team, looked bright. Pre-season practice found twelve lettermen returning, who were to form the nucleus of the squad. On the field the Tigers proved their worth by consistently winning and playing heads-up ball. Chuck Duquette, Hal Broerman, Dan Lamblin, and Will Ernst divided the mound chores while Dick Ernst and Bill Anshutz alternately formed the other half of the battery. The infield was well guarded by Jim Kumpf (1B), Bob Beck (2B), "Sockey" Hughes (3B), and Al McMillen (SS). Charlie Brandenburg, Henry Boston, Ike Misali, Bob Virgil, Don Miller, and Curly Willson saw considerable service in the outfield. Ted Carter, a utility infielder, rounded out the roster. The Tiger's steady play was characterized by constant hustle and fight.

For the first time, Withrow fielded a Reserve baseball squad which played a full schedule. The Reserves were coached by Mr. Melvin Russell.
