From "Ground sticks" to "Strike three," G.A.A. gives

"Come on along; we'll raise a song; clear heaven high for G.A.A." Yes, G.A.A.'ers really do reach high for fellowship and sportsmanship. Four hundred girls interested in sports and fun come together to pit their skill against their companions. All the major sports and many minor ones are offered to keep these athletic-minded girls busy. At the hub of this wheel of activities are its officers, who take on the responsibility of running the club. None of G.A.A. would be possible without the energetic backing of the gym teachers. Their willingness to give up their time to referee and sponsor sports make the club what it is.
