

As we grow, so grow the clubs at Withrow. Twenty-five attended the first meeting of the Home Economics Club five years ago; membership today is over seventy-five. These gals major in charm, studying flattering coiffures, charming clothes, and current styles. A cosmetician and a fashion expert demonstrate trends in these fields. A Thanksgiving basket to a needy family and the Christmas party at the General Protestant Orphan's Home carry out the "Service" theme.

Let's meet a busy club: Future Merchandisers. All students in merchandising classes meet twice a month during the fifth period for study under Miss Garnet Gooley. The club tours manufacturing, transportation, and publicity companies. On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and all day Saturday, they work in the city's stores. Heading this heavy schedule is the presentation of a scholarship to a fellow merchandiser so that he may go even higher in his climb to the top.

Left to Right: Row 1—M. Fisher; J. Wildt; J. Terheiden; D. Wildt; B. Troutt; F. Baxter; R. Polder; C. Cornelius. Row 1—Standing—M. Sacks; V. Schoenharl; C. Gloss; P. Worthman; Miss M. Detmering; M. Bachler; M. Bolender. Row 2—Standing—M. Kirkpatrick; P. McCartney; B. Glaser; B. Robertson; D. Sisley; R. Hix; M. Meyer; H. Miller.

Lasses become experts of the home and market place.

Shoes seem to attract these students, but why not? As members of Future Merchandisers Club, they study display of such stock.
