

Mr. Kain shows the cast the risible possibilities of this year's play.

Mr. Whiteside, bored with Mesalia's old maids.

With such comedies as "The Man Who Came to Dinner,"

"I may vomit", not only brought laughs but introduced one of the most fabulous characters of stage, screen, and radio, "The Man Who Came to Dinner." When portly Sheridan Whiteside invaded the Withrow auditorium with his supporting cast it was hard for even the most confirmed sobersides to suppress a smile. From the confused opening till the surprising and calamitous ending, the play extracted audience reactions ranging from smiles, titters, snickers, chuckles, giggles, to guffaws.

"Merry Xmas to all—this is Sheridan Whiteside."

"I may vomit," from Sheridan surprises everyone.
