

The Christmas cantata, "The Child Jesus", written by Joseph W. Clokey and Hazel Jean Kirk, was presented by the A Cappella Choir of Woodward High School under the direction of Mr. William Rimanoczy.

The background gave the impression of a medieval cathedral, with a twenty-two foot illuminated rose window in the background. Within the Gothic windows at each side, living tableaux were posed.

The stage setting was designed by Miss Margaret Clark, art director. The art work on the windows was done in pastels by special art students from the classes of Miss Clark and Miss Marcella Schroth. Members of the Artist Colony posed in the living tableaux that corresponded in setting and character to the scenes painted in song by the Choir. All heavy construction work was done by the stage crew assisted by the woodworking class under the direction of Mr. Gustav Nyman.

The cantata was considered by many as an outstanding performance of a work of this type. The students of Woodward were fortunate to have heard the choir's rendition of the music and to have seen the lavish setting in which they sang.
