

ANNA JONES. She took a front row seat from the start and hasn't given it up as yet — "Boy" if Casey could only see her now.

ERNESTINE JONES. Has real warmth and personality — innumerable friends. As her name implies — very earnest.

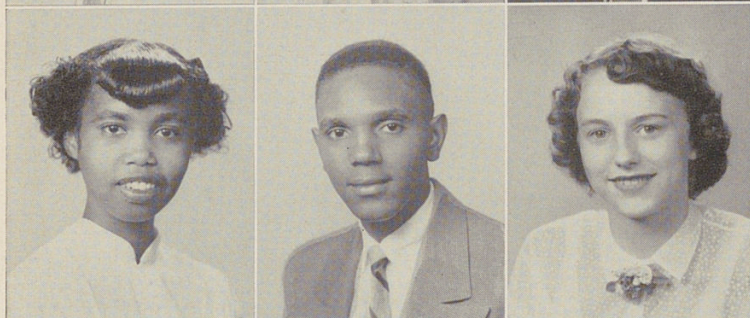

JUANITA JONES. Blessed with many virtues and talents wisely used which make her popular.

RALPH JONES. Whenever Ralph is around one knows a true friend is near — absolute tops.

BEATRICE KECK. "Be thee kind and be thee wise" — this little platitude reminds us of Beatrice.

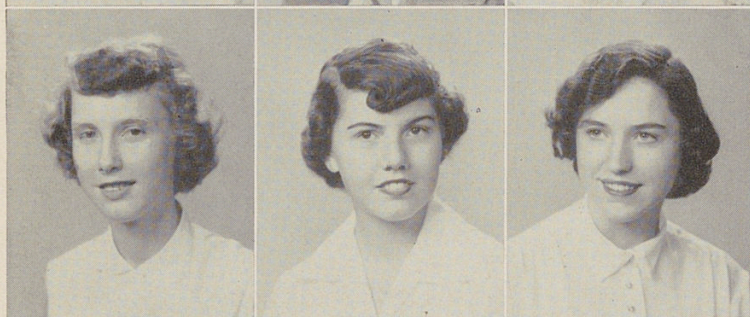

DEWEY KELLEY. The Duke is one person everyone knows and enjoys talking to. A keen sense of humor, walks with the ease of a cat.

SHIRLEY KENDRICKS. Shirley has all of the good qualities necessary to be a success.

MARVEL KILLINS. We call him Mr. Marvel cause he is so marvelous at making and keeping friends.

PATRICIA KLOPP. Well groomed, intelligent, and energetic — what more could anyone ask for.

BERTIE KOHAKE. Pleasing personality, alert and competent will make a place for herself in our world.

GAIL LANGLEY. Gail always greets one with a warm and enchanting smile — her friendliness is real, too.

BARBARA LAWSON. Always happy, always friendly, — she doesn't know how to frown.

VIRGINIA LANTER. Ginny has been a popular girl around Woodward and there's reason to believe she's going to retain this popularity "After Graduation".

MATTIE LEE LOVALLE. There's never a dull moment with Mattie L. in the crowd. She keeps things humming.

RUTH E. LEWIS. Ruth is a reserved young lady who aspires to be a mortician. "She'll be the last one to let her friends down."

SYLVIA LEWIS. She is fetching — And guess what! Ehe's ENGAGED in the busy business of becoming a teacher.

RUTH LIPSCOMB. The Hi-Capades couldn't do without her twinkling toes. She's really a little footnote.

MARY ANN LITTLEJOHN. She may well be called to the nursing profession after Woodward days — and follow in the footsteps of Clara Barton.

JAMES LYONS. If you see him writing in a little black book, you can bet it isn't his assignment; although, it may be his thought for that day.

NORMA E. LUKE. An active participant in G.A.A. and Physiology Club. As to the future — Norma swings between nursing and the Armed forces.

CARL MARLIN. A swell friend who always works hard and diligently, a trait which should take him far in the business world.
