

DECEMBER 14—The Co-ed Club gave a dance for the benefit of the annual. Choir and cast rehearsed for the Christmas Cantata. Gee, I won't have many classes until Christmas is over what with all of the rehearsing ahead.

DECEMBER 17—Our school seems deserted with all the older boys and girls working. Next week it will be worse. Funny thing how certain couples seem to be breaking up—couldn't be that the fellahs don't want to buy their sweeties Christmas presents, or could it? The government passed a new law concerning draft age. From this day on, fellahs, watch out!

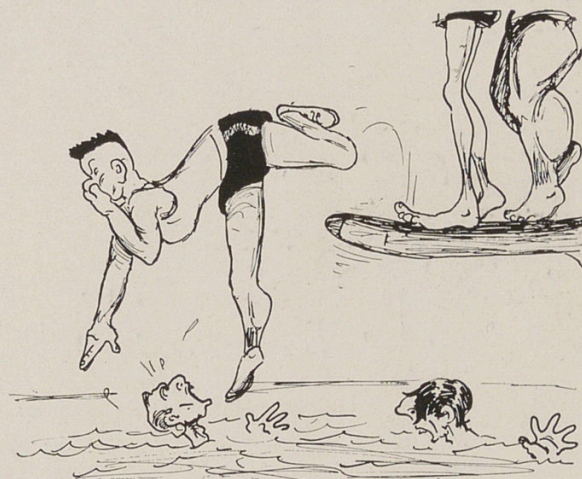

DECEMBER 18—Assemblies for the Christmas Cantata. This evening was Parents' Night. Mother and Dad came, but I steered them away from some of my teachers. The Victory Corps Council had a splendid exhibit in the front hall. Those pictures for our scrap book really looked okay.

DECEMBER 19—Splash Party. Really had myself a time this evening. I certainly am glad I reduced those few pounds. If I do say it myself, I really cut a mean figure in my new bathing suit! Anyway, the boys seemed to think so!

DECEMBER 21—Sgt. Frank McKernan visited Woodward today. Wonder what social studies teacher's heart was skipping a few beats!

DECEMBER 24—Filled Christmas baskets today. Just had a couple of classes and were dismissed early. I can't help being excited and curious. I'll be glad when tomorrow's here. Hope the B. F. comes through!

JANUARY

JANUARY 5—Oh, It's wonderful to come back to school again. Ha, ha! What am I saying? Woodward shines again!! Our 123,390 lb. fence is going to be donated to the scrap metal drive.

JANUARY 6—Sneaked a look at the bulletin today and saw that Miss Curry and Miss Callahan were sick over the holidays. The faculty sent candy to Miss Callahan, and Miss Curry received fruit. What a horrible mistake. Me thinks those gifts should have been reversed!!

JANUARY 8—Yes, miracles do happen. Our basket ball team trimmed our long standing rivals, Hughes, by a score of 41-35.

JANUARY 12—Assemblies for eleventh and twelfth grades. Many seniors had physical exams today in the gymnasium. Those white "bibs" we were given to wear certainly wouldn't protect us from the elements!
