

Better Service for All

Good telephone service requires more than instruments, wires and central office equipment — more even than operators, linemen, engineers and installers . . . it also requires the thoughtful cooperation of the men, women and young people who use it. Short conversations, courteous sharing of party lines, being sure of your number before calling, and similar practices are essential to good telephone service.

We in the telephone industry are constantly striving to provide a high quality system to serve the needs of our community, but the degree of satisfaction the service affords depends much on how it is used.
