

Personality Club

First Row: Orr, Gaines, Jensen, Adkins, Crawford, Taylor.
 Second Row: Battle, Mrs. Lora Nantz, Williams, Vaia, Rich, G. Smith, Seilacker, Averhart.
 Third Row: Moreland, Cave, Krautle, I. Smith, Condia, Stivers.
 Fourth Row: Mitchell, Weathers, Waller, Corbitt, Clemons.

The Personality Club, as the name suggests, is dedicated to the project of aiding its teen-age members to develop their personalities and to discover the best way to express themselves in everyday life. The girls of this club have set as their goal well-rounded personalities so that they may make a valuable contribution to society through their ability to shoulder the responsibilities of life and live amicably with their fellowmen.

Weekly discussions about present day problems, problems made more complex by the terrible disorder in the war-torn world of today, not only prove interesting, but very helpful in confronting the unusual circumstances to come out of these distressing times. Aside from these discussions, the club also takes an active part in trying to help the war effort. Several members of the organization are engaged in making scrap books for the convalescent servicemen. Others collect magazines for the same purpose. Some of the members of the club carry on various other activities in the same field.

The officers of the Personality Club are: Androneke Vaia, president; Blanche Yee, vice-president; Lois Condia, secretary. Mrs. Lora L. Nantz is the club sponsor.