

Home Ec: "We're cooking up something."

DAVID SIMMS. Those things that happen to David couldn't be as funny as they sound when he tells about them. Never hurries . . . always on the go.

GLORIA SIMMS. Fun-loving, warmhearted . . . a loyal Woodward booster who seldom missed a game.

HAROLD SKIDMORE. Even-tempered . . . takes life as it comes . . . a friend worth having.

CLARENCE SMITH. A gay companion . . . a sharp note in the band . . . manages to fight a winning tussle with Book-keeping II.

DONALD SMITH. Give him a year or so to get started and then turn on your television set for a good Donald Smith program.

GORDON SMITH. His red hair and pleasant smile are well known and liked at old Woodward.

JAMES SMITH. To be counted on in an emergency, we'd say . . . this whiz in Math IV is always calm and collected.

PARNELL SMITH. A pleasant disposition that we advise him to keep. It will take him far.

PEGGY JO SMITH. The name of Peggy Jo will always bring to mind her shining black hair and clear blue eyes.

REGINA SMITH. Notable possessions are her blonde hair, beautiful teeth, and a large collection of pictures.

DELORES SMOTHERS. Light hearted and light on her feet . . . a skillful tap dancer.

GLORIA SNEED. Poised, thoughtful, industrious . . . a way about her that makes her welcome everywhere.

MARGARET SOMMERS. We expect Margaret to be a real credit to Woodward's business training.

JOE SOMORI. A man of genius when it comes to dancing, sports, and making friends. Famous for the Somori-Valentino tango.

WILLIAM SORRELLS. Likes people, especially girls . . . his good humor can dispel anybody's gloom.
