

First Aid? "They were supposed to save me!"

SYLVESTER SOWELL. A true Woodwardite . . . a diligent worker in many activities. His unassuming manner when he's in the spotlight has won him our respect.

MABEL SPENCE. Behind that shy smile is a glowing personality which makes Mabel a wonderful friend.

GRANVILLE STALLWORTH. Has racked up many points for Woodward on the basketball floor . . . a hard-working Hi-Y man.

WILLY STARKEY. Tall, broad-shouldered, handsome . . . and, besides, he can cook!

DOROTHY STEPHENS. Dottie has been a popular girl at Woodward because of the same qualities that will make her an ideal secretary.

RUBY STEPHENS. A constant reader. But her time is well budgeted . . . studies are never neglected, particularly book-keeping.

JUANITA STEWART. Here is just about everything — good looks, good grades, good friends . . . a real asset to the class of '52.

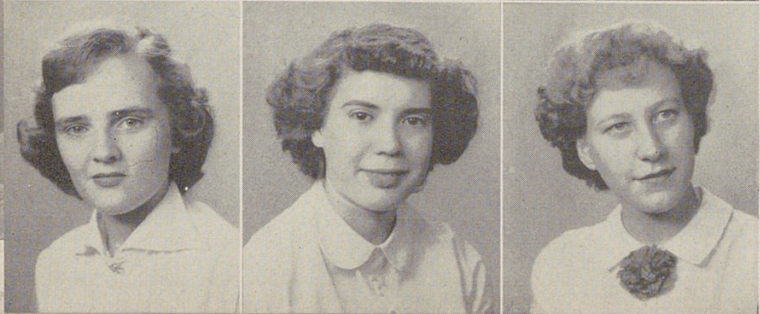

CHARLES STURGEON. His good traits are too numerous to count. His bowling score is high, too.

ELIZABETH TANKERSLEY. She really knows how to cut a rug. We all enjoy her pleasant smile.

VIOLA TAYLOR. The girls like her . . . the guys like her. Always carefully and smartly dressed.

WILLIAM TERREY. Another young artist whom we count on pointing to with pride some years from now.

HELEN THOMAS. Like the famous Helen of history, this one has a way with her that is hard to resist.

SHIRLEY THOMAS. A tiny senior with bright brown eyes and shining chestnut hair . . . that identifies Shirley.

MARILYN THOMPSON. Two burning ambitions — to be a good secretary and to be a good cook. Let's hope she doesn't get mixmaster confused with typewriter.
