

Educational Psychology and English

Miss E. Antoinette Ely, Instructor in Psychology in the Santa Barbara Normal School and the Santa Barbara Junior College 1913-1914, Principal of the Bartholomew-Clifton School, a specialist in Educational Psychology and English, offers the following classes for adults:

1. "Elementary Psychology, as an aid in interpreting ourselves and others."
2. A course in "Character Analysis as a Guide in Training Children."
3. A class for mothers, investigating the school of the present as it is and as it should be.
4. Special courses in "Oral and Conversational English," the aim of which shall be to correct ordinary errors of speech and to give fluency of expression."
5. Interpretations of English Literature, the Drama and the Novel.

Miss Ely may be engaged for a limited number of lectures upon any of the above subjects. For terms apply to the Westwood Conservatory of Music.

Languages

Fräulein Marie Harff, who will take charge of the German Department of the Westwood Conservatory, is an instructor of years' experience, is a member of the faculty of the Bartholomew-Clifton School, from which she comes well recommended. She will conduct classes in the German Language and Literature. Classes may also be arranged for Conversational German.

Madame Eugénie C. White, of Paris, France, a faculty member of the Bartholomew-Clifton School, will teach the French language and will also arrange classes for Conversational French.